

Presentation

IN THE ERA OF KNOWLEDGE AND INNOVATION, postdoctoral fellowships play a fundamental role in the advancement of knowledge. They contribute to the academic and scientific development of the centers that host them, providing innovative solutions to the projects in which the recipients of the fellowships are involved.

Their work often results in pioneering discoveries that can revolutionize entire disciplines. At CEIICH, for more than five years we have had the privilege of hosting postdocs who have collaborated on interdisciplinary projects addressing vitally important problems in different areas of knowledge. Their ability to generate new ideas and methods drives continuous development and innovation in their areas of study.

A collection of papers authored by our postdocs appeared for the first time in the dossier for issue 22, volume 8 of 2020 of INTER DISCIPLINA. It was a beautiful issue that showcased the great wealth and versatility of our postdocs' work at that time.

Five years later, our publication, faithful to its goal of divulging articles that are the result of interdisciplinary research and critical reflection through the interaction of the sciences and humanities, offers a dossier curated by current CEIICH postdocs. Readers will be able to appreciate the diversity of topics covered by our young colleagues.

The issue also includes an interview with Dr. Maya Aguiluz Ibargüen, conducted by one of our current postdocs, Dr. Ainhoa Suárez, who also serves as guest editor.

The Independent Communications section features several articles on current topics. The issue also includes a book review. ID
